Here you go with a PDF of the presentation.

By the way, as requested I am getting together a list of regulations that have been identified related to the quality of the life impacts. This list is probably best thought of as a starting place and not an exhaustive list since I did not task people working on the document with preparing a complete list of all applicable regulations - this is just what they gave me as part of their documents and I pulled together as I was going. However, it will be a starting spot for you. You should see this list later in the week.
